

Children's savior passes away - Tehran Times

Health Desk

20 May 2013 12:33 -

TEHRAN - Professor Parvaneh Vosough, director of the board of trustees of Mahak, passed away on Sunday at the age of 78. Mahak is a charity foundation set up to support children with cancer. Dr.

Vosough, with a degree in pediatric oncology, dedicated more than half a century of her precious life treating children with cancer in various medical centers across the country.

Her last days of life were spent educating and training medical students and treating sick children with cancer.

She treated numerous children affected by cancer from all around the world and helped them regain their health.